Cognizant’s Debroop Sengupta Named a Top 25 Consultant

Cognizant’s Debroop Sengupta, Manager Consulting, has been named to Consulting Magazine’s list of Top 25 Consultants.

Each year, Consulting Magazine looks for the most influential consultants in the profession with the intent of identifying those individuals that have the most significant impact. With 200 nominations and just 25 winners, those recognized have distinguished themselves within the industry. Their ability to deliver superior service to clients, adapt and innovate, and make substantial contributions to their firms’ bottom lines makes them leaders in the field.

A key member of the Manufacturing, Logistics, Energy and Utilities consulting team for the past nine years, Debroop has worked on various high-profile projects across Europe in the travel, transport, energy and utilities sectors. He has also been instrumental in many of the transformational wins for Cognizant.

As a senior consultant, he played a leading role in the digital transformation for one of the large European airports. He helped develop the agile product roadmap and was instrumental in implementing the solutions that helped the client improve their operational efficiencies and enhance the connecting experience of 750,000 passengers. Besides winning the ‘Best Project of the Year’ in the UK industry awards and the project being published by IDC as a case study, he was invited by Microsoft as a speaker in their global summit in the USA.

“It’s an honor to be named as one of Consulting Magazine’s Top 25 Consultants,” said Debroop. “There is nothing more rewarding than solving complex business problems for my clients and delivering tangible value to them through innovation.”
