Cognizant Achieves New Google Cloud Specialization in Application Specialization and 11 Expertise Credentials

As a Google Cloud partner, Cognizant has been awarded a new Specialization, as well as 11 Expertise credentials from Google. Earning these endorsements is an important milestone for the Cognizant Google Business Group, and shows our level of dedication for expanding the breadth and depth of capabilities to help our joint clients succeed with Google Cloud.

A Specialization is the highest technical designation that Google confers upon its partners. The classification denotes that the partner consistently excels in customer success and has proven technical capabilities, as vetted by Google and an independent third-party assessor. Cognizant's latest Specialization is in Application Development, establishing our ability to create even more value for our Google Cloud customers. Our three previous Specializations are in Infrastructure, Cloud Migration and Data Management.

Cognizant also received 11 Expertise credentials, proving our ability to drive customer success through our experience in specific industries, solutions and products. These eleven areas of expertise include Retail and Wholesale, Financial Services, Open Source Technology, Google Cloud Networking, Google Cloud Databases, Google Cloud App Development & Monitoring, Google Cloud Analytics, Modernizing Legacy Applications, New Business Channels using APIs,Application Security, and Conversational Design.

"These designations mean that Cognizant clients can have the utmost confidence in our abilities to deliver quality work and measurable outcomes in these areas," said Sanjiv Gossain, SVP and Global Leader of Cognizant's Google Business Group. "The dedication we put towards ensuring we are a leader in Google Cloud technologies helps our clients find even greater success along their modernization journeys, and we look forward to more exciting work in these domains."
