Company recognized for the second consecutive year for fostering an exceptional workplace.

TEANECK, N.J., Sept. 14, 2026 /PRNewswire/ -- Cognizant (Nasdaq: CTSI) today announced that it has been named one of America's Most Admired Workplaces 2027 by Newsweek and Plant-A Insights Group, marking the second consecutive year the company has earned this recognition. The list highlights organizations that excel at attracting talent, engaging employees and creating exceptional workplace experiences.

"As AI reshapes the world of work, we're focused on helping our people build future-ready skills, gain hands-on experience with leading technologies, and grow into the new opportunities this transformation is creating," said Kathy Diaz, Chief People Officer, Cognizant. "Being named one of Newsweek's America's Most Admired Workplaces for the second consecutive year reflects our commitment to fostering meaningful careers while creating a workplace culture that supports associates in being at their best."

This year's ranking recognizes 750 organizations for their ability to attract talent, foster employee engagement and deliver a strong overall workplace experience. The evaluation draws on more than 390,000 employee interviews and insights from over 179,000 workers across key workplace satisfaction categories, alongside more than 120 workforce performance indicators. Combined with a qualitative assessment of workplace practices, the ranking offers a comprehensive view of employer excellence.

This recognition adds to a growing list of workplace accolades for Cognizant, including being named to TIME's America's Best Companies list, Newsweek's America's Greatest Workplaces for Entry Level 2026, and earning Great Place to Work® certification in 31 countries. These recognitions reflect Cognizant's ongoing commitment to creating an exceptional employee experience and investing in the workforce of the future, including its pledge to hire 1,500 U.S. college graduates.

"Being recognized among Newsweek's America's Most Admired Workplaces is a meaningful reflection of the culture that companies around the country strive to create every day.
