

Cognizant Selected to Join S&P 500 Index

Cognizant (NASDAQ: CTSH), a leading provider of IT services, today announced that it will be added to the S&P 500 Index, effective after the close of trading on Thursday, November 16, 2006.

Widely regarded as the best single gauge of the U.S. equities market, the S&P 500 Index is a world-renowned index comprised of 500 leading companies across the major industries of the U.S. economy. Companies included in the index are selected by the S&P Index Committee, a team of Standard & Poor's economists and index analysts.

"We are honored to join the S&P 500 and to be recognized among the foremost companies in the U.S., many of which we are privileged to count among our customers," said Lakshmi Narayanan, President and CEO of Cognizant. "Inclusion in the S&P 500 Index is a testament to the operating and financial success of our strategy and our ability to add significant value to our customers' businesses through our global delivery model. This is a great achievement for our more than 35,000 employees around the world, who tirelessly dedicate themselves to helping our customers strengthen their businesses and have made Cognizant truly a top-tier offshore outsourcing company and a global IT Services industry leader."

The S&P 500 is managed to ensure that the index remains a leading indicator of U.S. equities, reflecting the risk and return characteristics of the broader large cap universe on an on-going basis. The S&P Index Committee follows a set of published guidelines for maintaining the index. Complete details of these guidelines are available on the website at <http://www.standardandpoors.com/indices> under Index Committee Policy.
